LET THE CHILDREN COME

Today's scripture tells us about forgiving people 70 x 7 times. This does not mean that you only forgive someone 490 times; the 491st time, you say "that's the final straw, I'm done". We are to always forgive. Believe me, we sin more than 490 times in our lives ... and God continues to forgive. Help your children learn ... forgiveness is hard sometimes. VERY hard. If they are having trouble forgiving someone, they can come to you; and you can help them to learn to forgive.

And IF your child has done something that they would like to be forgiven for, talk to them and help them through learning how to be forgiven as well.

Let them know, God sees all and is always there to help them. He will help them learn to forgive and/or be forgiven.

A PRAYER FOR THE MORNING AND/OR EVENING:

MORNING PRAYER:

Heavenly Father, Thank You for another day to live, love, serve, and grow. I pray that You would guide my thoughts before they become words and my words before they become actions. Help me make choices that bring honor to You and peace to my life. Keep my heart free from bitterness, resentment, and unnecessary worry. Teach me to extend grace to others just as You have extended grace to me. Give me strength to handle today's responsibilities with excellence and faith. Open my eyes to opportunities that I might otherwise overlook. Let favor, wisdom, and protection accompany me throughout this day. Thank You for being my constant source of hope and direction. In Jesus' name, Amen.

EVENING PRAYER:

Lord, tonight I'm tired in ways I can't always explain. I've smiled when my heart was hurting, stayed strong when I wanted to fall apart, and carried things I never said out loud. Tonight, I'm giving it all to You. Please hold the parts of me that feel fragile. Quiet the thoughts that won't let me rest and remind me that tomorrow doesn't have to be figured out tonight. Thank you for staying when I felt alone and loving me when I struggled to love myself. Let Your peace settle over my heart, Your presence fill my room, and Your arms surround me as I sleep. Amen
